

HARVARD CATHOLIC CENTER

CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS

ANNUAL REPORT OF CONTRIBUTORS
Fiscal Year 2015

SENIOR CHAPLAIN

Father Michael E. Drea

Dear Alumni, Parents and Friends,

I write to you with tremendous gratitude for the devotion and generosity you have continued to show to the Harvard Catholic Center. This Annual Report of Donors for the fiscal year 2015 reflects an endorsement on the part of all of you of the vital role that the Catholic Church plays in the formation of our Harvard undergraduate and graduate students. Thank you for your steadfast commitment to Catholic life at this great University. As I have always said...as Harvard forms future leaders for the world, the Church must also have a guiding hand in their faith formation as well during their years on campus.

For nearly seven years, it has been my unique privilege to serve as the pastor of St. Paul's Parish and as senior chaplain to the Harvard Catholic Center. It has been a singular honor to have come to know - and be inspired by - so many Harvard students over this period of time.

I also have had the privilege of meeting countless Harvard Catholic alumni, parents and friends of the Catholic Center all over the country who have enthusiastically supported the Center's goal of strengthening the spiritual, sacramental and intellectual programs that have helped our young Catholics grow in their faith.

And so it was with mixed emotions that I accepted Cardinal Seán O'Malley's request to become pastor of the collaborative parishes of St. Ann's and St. Brendan's in the Neponset/Dorchester section of Boston, an assignment that officially began on January 11th. I am humbled by the Cardinal's confidence in my ability to take on this new challenge, but I will dearly miss Harvard! Happily for me, I am not too far from Harvard Square and the many friends I have made over the years at St. Paul's and through the Catholic Center.

As I write this, a new pastor has just recently been named for St. Paul's. I am so pleased to tell you that Fr. Bill Kelly, who has been the pastor at St. Mary's in Dedham, Massachusetts since 2010 is a good friend and a great priest, and an excellent choice to carry on the mission of the Harvard Catholic Center as senior chaplain, joining Father George Salzmann and Father Mark Murphy in service to the Catholic community at Harvard.

I know I speak on behalf of the chaplains and staff of the Center when I say a sincere thank you for making it possible for us to provide a vibrant Catholic presence at Harvard, and I want you to know how much your generosity and friendship has meant to me personally. I am so grateful!

I humbly ask you for your prayers for me in my new assignment, for Father Bill Kelly, and that God may continue to bless the vital work of the Harvard Catholic Center. You can be assured that you all are always in my prayers.

In His peace,

Reverend Michael E. Drea,

DONOR PROFILE

Chris Pascucci, Harvard '84

Chris Pascucci doesn't remember everything about his time spent at the Catholic Student Center during his days as an undergrad, but he does remember burning the sauce at one of the regular spaghetti suppers that to this day, bring Harvard students together.

"We served it anyway," he now says with a laugh.

Chris has become a generous donor to the Harvard Catholic Center, as much for what the Center offers today, as for what it meant to him as a student. In fact, when he came to Cambridge as a freshman in the fall of 1980, he wasn't aware there was a Catholic Center.

"I remember doing my best to go to daily Mass, as there was a lot of noisy distraction on campus, then and now, but I never knew about the Catholic Student Center until I got involved with the Big Brother organization through the center," said Chris. "My little brother was a youngster named Richard Mello, who sang in the choir at St Paul's. The center was a nice place for me to get away from the hustle and bustle of campus, meet with other students who were interested in the faith, and get involved in bible study groups."

He had lost track of the center over the years, until being contacted by Harvard Senior Chaplain and St. Paul Parish Pastor, Fr. Michael Drea. "Fr. Drea and the other chaplains have done a great job," said Chris. He and his wife Silvana are especially impressed that Fr. Drea welcomed FOCUS (the Fellowship of Catholic University Students) and their missionaries to campus a couple of years ago, giving students the opportunity to encounter the Lord in a personal way. (www.focus.org)

"When kids go away to college, they either go deeper in their faith or pull away, so it's a real crucial time, and FOCUS, working through the Harvard Catholic Center, does a terrific job keeping students engaged in their faith."

Chris met his future wife in an economics class when he was a sophomore and she a junior. The couple was married four years later - the same year Chris earned his masters in business at Columbia, and Silvana her law degree from Harvard. After practicing in New York for a couple of years, Silvana began to devote herself full time to their growing family, while Chris eventually joined his father's many-faceted company on Long Island, where he is owner and manager of Duck Pond Realty. Among the family businesses was ownership of an independent television station in New York that his father sold just two years ago. And perhaps Chris got a taste for the business himself as an intern one summer at WBZ, which is located just down the road from Harvard's campus on the Boston side of the Charles River.

"We programmed good movies, sitcoms...we had Oprah's show, and our own newscasts. We broadcasted daily Mass in the morning, and pro-life shows at night!"

Chris and Silvana are dedicated supporters of pro-life causes, as well (see www.projectforlife.org), and credit the Harvard Catholic Center with being a place where students can learn why the church is pro life, or why the church teaches what it does on any number of other issues. "Your beliefs are going to be challenged at a place like Harvard, and you need to be able to say more than 'well that's what the Church teaches'. You need to be able to make the argument!"

The Pascuccis are a Harvard family through and through, with daughter Olivia having graduated in 2014, son Nicholas in his senior year and daughter Isabella a freshman this year, and their youngest, Joseph is a high school student. Thanks to the support of Chris and Silvana and many others, the Harvard Catholic Center remains a vibrant and welcoming place—spaghetti suppers and all—for undergrads, grad students and area young professionals to nurture a deeper friendship with God.

The Harvard Catholic Center Annual Fund provides unrestricted support for our ministry so that we can continue to give spiritual guidance to Harvard students. Since we do not receive funding from the University or the Archdiocese of Boston, we rely on the generosity of parents, alumni, friends and foundations to be able to expand programs that serve our students and enable us to welcome those who are searching to learn more about the richness of our faith. Please make your gift today.
